An Irishman Hung in Effigy. Yesterday morning about daybreak, when Mr. Sidney Bryan, the county ailer, arose, he discovered an effigy hanging in one of the trees between the court house and the old building lately occupied as the Sentinel printing office. He very wisely cut it down and carried it in the court house where it would not be exposed to the public gaze. It was made of hay, and was dressed in second hand coat, pants and vest, A beaver was set upon its head, a string of Irish potatoes was around its neck, and a bottle of whiskey was found in the breastpocket of the coat. There were various things in the get-up of the effigy to in-dicate that it was intended to represent an Irishman, and many suggested, with good show of reason, that it was particularly designed to symbolize St. Patrick. The supposition becomes all the more reasonable when it is remembered that saint. Early in the morning, before many had seen it, the effigy was entirely destroyed.

No sensible man would have been guilty of this folly and meanness—an act the direct tendency of which was to mortify and insult a large and worthy class of the community. It can only be attributed, in reason, to some thoughtless boy or boys, or to some equally foolish and unreckoning man. Such slurs as this, unintentional or designed, upon a foreign element of the community and the native Catholic element as well, can be productive of no sort of good, and may occasion jealousies and heart-burnings. We hope that our Irish and Catholic friends will pass this incident over with the lofty contempt which it so eminently deserves. The better portion of the community has no sympathy with such unjust and ungenerous methods of gratifying an ill-will, if, indeed, any such surpose as this was entertained, and we trust that those who would likely be most affected by this occurrence will realize this fact.

Doors Down Low.

Many persons passing by the hardware house of Julius Lewis & Co., in the last day or two, have been attracted by the immense pile of four-panel doors there exhibited. We were moved, yesday morning, to ask our friend Nick West for an explanation of the display, and what he was going to do with them and received the reply that those in view were one single car load of doors, 500 in number, direct, all rail, from Cin. cinnati. The smaller sizes of these four-panel doors are sold at the ridicu lously low price of $1.50, after coming by rail over 2,000 miles, which suggest that doors, ready-made, must grow on trees out West.

The Government Building.

There is very little prospect of the completion of this building. True, the work is progressing, but so very slowly as to be almost imperceptible. The roof has been framed, and the floor is now being arched. Thirty workmen only are employed on the building. It is necessary that the work be kept going on all the time, and a larger force than this cannot be employed lest the appropriation be exhausted and operations have to suspend entirely. At the rate at which the building is now progressing it will require two years yet to complete it.

larm of Fire.

The fire alarm was sounded last even ng about 8:30 o'clock, and the firemen and all the balance of the comnunity turned out with haste. After an infinite amount of yelling and splashing through the mud, it was discovered that the alarm was caused by the burning out of a chimney in the residence of A. C. Saunders, Esq. No harm resulted.

Mayor's Court.

Only one case appeared yesterday on the docket of this tribunal. Phil. Lane, colored, an ex-penitentiary convict, was up for threatening to take the life of Mr. Burns, who is an employe at the penitentiary. The Mayor held him in a ond for five hundred dollars for his appearance at the next term of the Superior Court, and failing to give this he was committed to jail.

The Methodist Dime Party.

The dime party given Friday night by the ladies of the Edenton Street M. E. Church, was a pleasing success. It was quite largely attended and prices being limited to a dime for each thing called for, those who attended were liberal in their purchases. The evening was very much enjoyed and the receipts were quite gratifying.

and Yesterday's About Two Pigs.

The delightful weather which has prevailed for several days past, came to an ignominious termination yesterday in a conglomeration of rain, sleet, snow, wind, mud and the whole catalogue of disagreeable things. New Englanders would scarcely expect such a blast in January. Only those whose business called them on the streets, knew how terrific it was. An umbrella was a ghastly joke upon the man who first made one, and an overcoat was a hollow mockery, so far as keeping out wind and rain was concerned. All signs of com merce and nearly all evidences of life disappeared from the streets. The beachanalian revels which usually characterize Wilmington street Saturday evenings, did not occur; the Saturday evening surroundings of the market house were lacking, and the only everythat yesterday was the anniversary of day sight was an occasional police officer waltzing a limber inebriate to the lock-up. The elements shifted every now and then, and sleet succeeded rain and snow sleet, one or two or three of these harmonizing occasionally and all falling together. But for not a moment was there a cessation of the whole. It was a terrible day as the red noses of those without told plainly to those who stood within and watched the passersby. Except early in the morning not a lady appeared on the streets the live-long day, and this added to the sense of dreariness. Yes, yes, it was the worst time we all have had since the great December snow. The little violets looked strangely out of place, with the snow almost as high as their heads and it was strange to see the more stately hyacinthe with its beautiful petals unfolded to the sky on a day when a half-christianized man would not have driven a dog from his

An Incident in the Life of Hon. B. F. Moore.

A venerable and cultivated gentleman has been giving to the Wilson Advance some reminiscences of the olden time, and among these is found the following, which is of local and general interest, applying to the "father of the bar" of Raleigh and that of the State as well:

much younger man than now, on the occasion of the memorable visit of Mr. Clay to North Carolina, he was selected to deliver the welcoming address. The occasion requiring it, Mr. Moore put himself to extra effort to prepare a speech worthy the man he was go welcome. Having written it out in full, he called on Capt. Simmons, saying he had written his speech and wanted to read it to him. 'Well,' said Simmons, read it to him. 'Well,' said Simmons, ironically, 'I suppose you wish me to criticise and correct, being an educated and scholarly gentleman?' 'Not that,' said Mr. Moore, 'but to see how it will strike the vulgar mind.'"

Fertilizers for North Carolina. The following is from the Norfolk Virginian of yesterday: "The Legislature of North Carolina having passed a law imposing a license of $500 a year upon non-resident manufacturers of fertilizers or their agents; also a tax of fifty cents a ton on all fertilizers manufactured elsewhere and sold in that State, the Baltimore manufacturers and dealers in fertilizers held a meeting on Tuesday for discussion of the matter. It was proposed to advance the price of fertilizers $1 a ton to North Carolina purchasers, and thus meet the license and the tax per ton. The shipment of fertilizers from Baltimore to the South is large during February and March. North Carolina pays a million dollars a year for fertilizers from Baltimore."

The Fire Yesterday Morning. In our neccessarily imperfect report yesterday morning, of the fire which took place as we were on the eve of going to press, no mention was made of the highly commendable conduct of Messrs. Jas. Mullins and Wm. Russ, who periled their lives in their efforts to suppress the flames. Mr. Russ was the first persen to reach the scene and he, with Mr. John Weir and Mr. Mullins were soen on top of the house and by their almost superhuman efforts kept the flames under control until the fire company could get a stream on them. Their conduct is worthy of all commendation,

The State Fair.

We understand that, notwithstanding the failure in the House of the bill proposing to borrow $14,000 from the State for the use of the State Agricultural Society, the Executive Committee has already gone to work and will leave no stone unturned to make the next State Fair a more signal success than any of its predecessors has been. In this laudable work we hope the committee will have the earnest assistance of every public-spirited citizen throughout the State for this is the State and not a Raleigh Fair.

George T. Stronach & Co. are receive ing daily fresh supplies of all kinds of goods, and they sell cheaper than any other parties on the market. They also sell Bradley's celebrated Guanos for 400 pounds of cotton, first picking.

Yesterday morning policeman Wa ters, who lives on Bloodsworth street, near Oakwood Cemetery, started down to police headquarters about dawn, and on the way, near the city limits, discovered two darkies lying asleep in a strip of wood, the head of each pillowed on a sack. The sight was an unusual one, and the officer aroused the sleepers and found that each sack contained a pig. The darkies endeavored to explain their espective titles to the respective pigs, but the more they explained the more evident it became that the pigs had been spirited away without the consent of the owner. The persons were accordingly brought on to the lock-up, with their burdens, and there lodged, to remain until something is developed. They say they live on Crabtree creek. It is almost certain that they stole the pigs, but from whom has not yet trans-

Movements of Cotton in Raleigh. Receipts for the week ending March 16th, 1877, 291 bales; receipts for same week last year, 512 bales; decrease in receipts this year, 221 bales. Whole receipts from 1st September to date, 38,959 bales; whole receipts same time last year, 32,070 bales; increase in receipts to date, 6,889 bales. The market has been depressed during the whole of the week, and prices have again given away; the market closes at 10g for middlings. It will be seen that receipts here, as in the United States generally, have fallen off materially. We can see no good reason for the continued decline in cotton except that a powerful combination is "squeezing" the "shorts," and when satisfied, the same combination will no doubt be on the other side ready to advance it as much as they have depressed it, or more.

The Guano License.

The first license tax of $500, imposed by the act to establish a department of agriculture, immigration and statistics, and for the encouragement of sheep husbandry, upon each foreign company or person selling commercial fertilizers in this State, was paid yesterday at the State treasury by John R. Long & Co., of Baltimore, proprietors of the Excel-lenza Cotton Fertilizer. The act is not retrospective, but applies only to fertilizers which may be sold in this State after its ratification, which was the 12th of March.

On Monday night a kerosene lamp exploded in the residence of Mrs. Catharine Bogart, of Sussex street, Hackinsack. Mrs. Ursula Terhune, aged 73 and Mrs. Eleanor Kent, who were visiting Mrs. Bogart, attempted to extingush the flames, when their clothing caught fire. They ran around bewildered, and before assistance arrived both were frightfully burned. Mrs. Terhune died within a few hours, but Mrs. Kent lived until yesterday morning, when she died.—Durham (N. cheat us hereafter in elections. WE refer our readers to an able ar ticle on the South and the President which we clip from the editorial columns of the New York World. We endorse every line of it. THE eyes of the public are still turned with interest toward Washington. The desire now is to know the class of men which will receive appointments at the hands of the new President. It is said that the Nicholls politicians, of Louisiana, are leaving Washington, being well satisfied, from the assurances which they have received, that the troops will be speedily withdrawn from that State and South Carolina.

Now, Mr. Aldermen, give us light. You can take your choice between gas, kerosene, astral oil or Watkins' solar gas burner. The city can well afford to light up the streets with either kind. Give us some light if it is tar-barrels and lightwood knots.

JUDGE BUNTING'S suit involves a nice point of law: but we rather think his valor in this case gets the better of his reason. It is eminently proper that he should resist encroachments upon his office, but we are inclined to the opinion that the clerk is made for the court: not the court for the clerk-upon the time-honored principle that the dog should wag the tail, not the tail the dog.

Gov. Holden is re-approinted postmaster for this city. No one more richly deserves government pap than Mr. Holden. For the Republican party he has sacrificed everything-even principle. But Mr. Hayes puzzles us. He proposes to cut loose from the worst elements of the Southern Republican party and yet his first selection for office in North Carolina is the chiefest sinner among them all! We must thank Mr. Hayes for this appointment. He will have hard work now to find a Democrat who will eat government papout of the same spoon with Bill Holden.

THE injunction against Lot W. Humphrey, ex-President of the Atlantic & North Carolina Railroad Company, having been made perpetual, the road passes into good hands, and the frantic attempt of the Humphrey ring to hold on fails. The decision of Judge Cox was legally, morally and politically right. Cormorants should never be allowed to suck the life-blood of our State arteries, Major John Hughes is a gentleman of distinguished talents, integrity and patriotism: and with his administration of the affairs of the A. & N. C. R. R., we may look for it to be speedily rescued from its present crippled, languishing condition.

Upon the question, would it be right in a Southern Democrat, to accept office under Hayes, the staunch editor of the Southern Home offers some suggestions, which meet with our hearty concurrence. General Hill says if the Southerner believed that Hayes was lawfully elected, he might accept office under him, "provided that he was acting for the good of his people and not for self-aggrandizement." After erecting this insurmountable barrier in the office-seeker's path, the General goes on

t) remark: But if he thought that Hayes was put in by frand, surely he could not honorably take a seat in his Cabinet, and become a partner in the fraudulent Government. Suppose that A had acquired a large property by fraud and that a corrupt judge had confirmed his title to it, could any man of honor and probity enter into a partnership with the swindler and become a partaker in the gains of fraud and iniquity? Every right thinking man will say surely not So no man who believes that the pres ent administration is the creature of fraud can become a part of that administration without endorsing the fraud. Every man of sense will see that the supposed are precisely parallel.

DEMOCRATIC TRIUMPH.

It is announced that during the pres ent week the troops will be withdrawn from the support of the dual gevernments of Louisiana and South Carolina. when it is expected, in administration circles, that Hampton and Nicholls. without further formalities, will become de facto Governors of their respective States. Should this be done, it will give the country assurance that President Hayes was not altogether insincere in his inaugural address; and we may look forward with some degree of confidence that these glorious Democratic watchwords, Reform and Reconciliation, are to become living realities that will scatter blessings in their train throughout the length and breadth of the land. Let us comprehend the full meaning of Mr. Hayes' Southern policy. If we understand it, it is that the army shall no longer police the Southern States: that the right of local self-government shall be restored; that the carpet-bag despotisms shall be destroyed, wiped from the face of the earth; that each Southern State shall be as free from military interference as any Northern State, Louisiana as New York, South Carolina as Connecticut; that race antagonisms shall neither be incited or encouraged for partisan or any other purposes; that peace and good will between the sections shall be restored; and, in brief, that the entire Southern policy of the Republican party is wrong and shall be undone and reversed. In other words that the South shall be treated with justice, and the dogs of

What is this but the triumph of Democratic principles? The principles which have governed the Republican party since the war find no place in Hayes' new policy. That party has opposed "reconciliation and reform" to the utmost of its power. Every step in that direction made by the Democrats has met with their open, violent resistance. They have fed upon the hatreds engendered by the war. They held the Southern States in the strong grasp of the Federal power, that we might be overrun and plundered by unprincipled adventurers from the Northern States. They denied us the right of local selfgovernment. With the bayonet they sustained negro supremacy and carpet bag thieves. They never sought to restore a union of hearts; no words of conciliation ever fell from their hatebreathing lips; and in the last contest they raised the banner of proscription-their campaign upon that basis, resorting all the while to the most devilish

mosity and revenge. No! There is not a feature of genuine Radicalism, such as we have known for eleven years, in the new Southern policy inaugurated by Mr. Hayes. Every clause of it is sprung from democratic loins; every line of it is redolent with democratic sentiment. The inaugural address fell from the lips of Rutherford B. Hayes; the voice and the words were his, but the sentiments were the sentiments of Samuel J. Tilden. The Democratic party was cheated out of its electoral votes, but we to-day have the satisfaction of seeing its patriotic and irrefragible principles adopted by our bitterest foes. We were swindled out of our candidates, but our cause has triumphed, and the champion of the Republican party to-day stands upon the broad, deathless St. Louis Democratic platform of reform. Mr. Hayes is entitled to no thanks for this. The only safety for the Republican party is for it to take refuge upon the Democratic Matform. The Southern policy which Mr. Hayes has adopted was demanded by a million majority of the white men of the United States, led by the Democratic leaders. A majority of more than a quarter of a million of all colors demanded it. And now that Mr. Hayes has stolen the sceptre designed for Samuel J. Tilden, he dare not resist the will of this vast majority of his countrymen. To do it would be to fix the doom of the Republican party beyond all peradventure in 1880. In Tilden's legitimate majority we discern the reason why this great change has come over the spirit of the Republican dream. The abandonment of Chamberlain and Packard is a confession on the part of the Republicans that they secured the Presidency by fraudulent means; and the offer of this fraudulent administration to give the Southern Democrats a fair share of Federal patronage is an effort to build up a white party in the South that will condone the theft of the nineteen electoral votes which of right belonged to Samuel J. Tilden. These insidious advances ef Radicalism in its new form should be spurned with scorn and contempt by all honorable Southern men. The disposition of Mr. Hayes to do "equal and exact justice to all men" is, of course, perfectly acceptable to the Southern Democracy, for it is what we believe we are fairly entitled to, and it is that for which we have ever contended unceasingly and unwaveringly.

We have achieved a grand victory over the Republican party at the polls. To win success over the fraud by which we were cheated out of that victory, the Democratic party has but to stand firm by its principles, its ancient faith, its traditions and its glorious organization. resisting the blandishments and enticements of Republican seducers, and never losing sight of the FRAUD that sits enthroned in the White House. For those who would sell their Democratic birthright for a mess of Hayes pottage, we should have little toleration.

DISCOMESTURE OF THE CAR-

PET-BAGGERS.
The administration appears to have satisfactory assurances that violence will not follow the withdrawal of the troops. But the administration has no assurances that the curses of the carpetbaggers, their aiders and abettors will not be heaped upon it. Packard has already hit Hayes and his backers some hard licks. That was an especially sour crack that he gave Mr. Stanley Matthews, a few days ago, when he replied to Matthews' letter asking Packard's abdication, by saying that he declined to discuss the question, for the reason that Matthews had proven Packard's right to the Governorship of Louisiana in his argument before the Electoral Commission in favor of Hayes.

Spencer, of Alabama, howls out against Hayes, charging him with base ingratitude in throwing overboard those who had done the dirty work to which he owed his election. William Pitt Kellogg, is said to be extremely disgusted; and heaps maledictions on the head of his Fraudulency. Senator Patterson, "Honest John" as the rogue is called in derision, is said to deliver himself of his true inwardness about the lobbies, in this homely, rude, but truthful manner: "Hayes never could have been President had it not been for the action of the carpetbaggers-d-n him-he never was elected, and we made a mistake by not standing by Tilden. In self-defense the carpet-baggers will have to make terms with Democrats in the Senate."

The friends of the carpet-baggers de not attempt to conceal their indigna tion, at the prospect of Hayes proving to be in office what was promised for him on the stump by the bloody shirters and bull-dozers, the Mortons and the Ingersolls, "The infernal fool," cries Morton, "takes us at our word." "Yes," adds Ingersoll, "and no one was quite idiot enough to do that before." This brilliant infidel and political blatherskite is credited with saying "that the Republicans have discovered in one day n Hayes that which it took them three years to find out in Andy Johnson," This discovery reminds one of the well known old story illustrating a quickness of apprehension in one Jake Thompson, who went into a pasture, bridle in hand, to capture a four-year-old colt that wandered free with a rope halter dragging from its neck. The colt was shy of the bridle and Jake left the objectionable article on a stump. He found it as difficult to lead the colt to the bridle, and then bethought himself of a sort of electoral commission that would count him in. He tied the end of the halter to his leg and then tried, measuring his length upon the ground, to reach the bridle. The colt, however, alarmed at this compromise, ran away, and Jake found himself being dragged along the swamps, over the fences, through the thickets, in the most disagreeable manner. That evening, when his friends and family found Jake and put him together, he was asked to ex. plain, which he did in a rather disconnected way, and he wound up with earnestly exclaiming:

"Gentlemen, that 'ere colt hadn't made two jumps afore I saw where I missed it."

Hayes' first jump teaches the carpetbaggers, the same fact, we are glad to note, and we can stand by, and with the utmost complacency enjoy the discomfiture of these plundering gentry, who love the News as a rogue loves a stick. In Haves' conflict with the rascals, we entirely sympathize with him, and we do not hesitate to say that the Democrats should give their moral support to Hayes so long as he maintains his present ground, however fraudulent his title to the Presidency, or however, determined we may be to resist his attempts to break our ranks and divide "the solid South."

The article is illustrated with fifteen excellent engravings, depicting the scenes and incidents of the expedition. The other articles of the number are of notable variety: an excellent short story of New York life, by Thomas Dunn English; one by the lamented young Albert F. Webster, the by the lamented young Albert F. Webster, the last production from his pen, bearing the title of "The Owner of Lara;" a third, entitled "The Wild-Dove's Nest," a Russian Easterstory. There is an entertaining sketch under the title of "A Hero of the Old Regime," which describes the remarkable career of the Marshal de Richelieu, and a paper by George Cary Eggleston, on "Phases of Russian Life," which contains many interesting facts. "Cherry Ripe!" is continued, and is full of resh interest. There are other papers, poems, etc.; and the editor, who discusses many current topics, gives some statistics in regard to the New York savings anks, which are of great value, and prove the general trustworthy character of these institutions.

Atlantic Monthly. The Atlantic for April has for its opening paper the "Diary of a British Officer," sta tioned in Boston during the siege of the city in 1775, which gives an interesting glimpse of the state of things at that time. John Fiske contributes an able historical paper on "The Races of the Danube," which makes it easy to understand why the Eastern question is a complicated one, and difficult of selution. Mr. Longfellow's "Ballad of the French Fleet, Mr. Longfellow's "Ballad of the French Fleet, October, 1746," is very quaint, and has a touch of humor not often found in h's verses. The South Carolinian who gave such a graphic description of the political condition of his State in the February number, contributes another chapter on "South Carolina Morals," which is sure of a careful perus if from the readers of his former article and helps one to realize the grave difficulties of the Southern problem. R. H. Stoddard contributes a long narrative poem entitled "Wrat slaw," and there are other poems by Alice Will'ams Brotherton, H. H., and Mrs. Platt. Edwin P. Whipple criticises Diesens's American Notes. "The Contributors' Club" contains as usual, bright and suggestive paragraphs on various topics, and suggestive paragraphs on various topics, and the musical department of the magazine offers a very effective song—"The Creole Lover's Song"—written by E. C. Stedman, and set to music by Dudley Buck, It is arranged for baritone or contraito voice, and occupies six pages of the number.

Dr. J. H. Demarest, of 330 East 12th street, has in hand a case that will interest the medical world. At 433 East 190th street lives an old intelligent con-120th street lives an old intelligent cofored woman named Mrs. Brown. She has two daughters. Hattie, the eldest, who is about 25 years of age, aided her mother in carrying on millinery and dressmaking for a livelihood until she was incapacitated for work by an extraordinary malady that has changed her from a hale, hearty girl, to a feeble and delicate invalid. With pleasing manners, intelligent countenance, conversational powers above those of the average of her class, she gives the following account of her remarkable

For several years she has been grad ually losing her flesh and becoming daily weaker and more languid. For long time the cause of this change was merely conjecture. Unaccountable pains and strange motions that she felt convinced her about three years ago that a iving reptile was dragging her down to the grave. This conclusion brought to her remembrance that six years ago at a picnic she drank from a creek dipping the water up to her mouth in her hand At the time she was conscious of having swallowed something in the water, bu she thought nothing more about it until upon her. Inquiry proved that the stream contained numerous frogs and many small reptiles. About two years ago distinct sounds were heard from the reptile, and every day as it grew larger the sounds that i emitted became louder and louder. At times it seemed to be the croaking of frog, then a hissing sound was I and this was followed frequently by that peculiar sound made by a frog as i jumps from the bank into a stream After these sounds the reptile struggled with such vigor as to give Miss Brown indescribable pain. Recently the sounds became so loud as to be plainly audible to every one in the room. At length the sufferer became so weak that she could not go out of the house. Until within the last few days she has had no regular medical attendant, fearing that an operation might be ordered. Under the advice of relatives and friends she u ed large quantities of strong alco-holic drinks. These did not intoxicate her, but they kept the reptile dormant for awhile. On recovering, however, it was more troublesome than before Therefore she discontinued their use Then she reluctantly consented to le examined by a regular physician, and Dr. J. H. Demarest, one of the chief physicians of the Homospathic Hospital on Ward's Island, was called in. On Wednesday the doctor questioned his patient very closely, and, after mak ing an examination, expressed his opin-ion that she had a living creature within her. He gave her such food as would tend to irritate it, and yesterday he not only distinctly heard the sounds described by the girl, but plainly saw the motions of the creature as it distended the girl's emaciated form. His treat ment of this most remarkable case at this early stage of his examination is necessarily of an "expectant" characlowek a frog, a lizard, or some reptile, when small, at the time she speaks of drinking from the creek. Just what it is I am, of course, unable to determine; but that for some time a creature o some kind has been living and growing in her is beyond the shadow of a doubt. shall endeavor to gain her permission to go to the hospital on Ward's Island where, if other means fail, the creature will be removed."

The Pennsylvania Senatorship --- Comments of the Philadel-

The Philadelphia papers are unani-mous and emphatic in their condemnation of the "little arrangment" which evenuated Tuesday at Harrisburg in the omination of Mr. J. Don Cameron for the United States Senate by a Republican caucus, to secceed his father, Hon, Simon Cameron, whose regisnation was entrusted to Gov. Hartranft on Monlay, to be presented to the Legislature only upon the assurance that his son would be chosen his successor. The Public Ledger says the news sent out from Harrisburg "that the representa-tion of the State in the Senate of the United States is to be transferred from Cameron senior to Cameron junior-by virtue of some little amicable family arrangement, it may be supposed—is a puzzle to those old-fashioned folk who supposed that 'proprietary government' had come to an end in Pennsylvania in

The Philadelphia Press, whose editor, Col. Forney, still painfully remembers how the senior Cameron tricked him out of the United States Senatorship in 1856, says it is "one thing to have a Republican aristocrat in the Senate, but is another thing to see him transmitting his political power to his poster-ity," and adds: "The senior Senator of Pennsylvania, the Hon. Simon Cam-eron, seventy-eight years old, March 8, 1877, sends orders to the Legislature of the State of Pennsylvania—the State of Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Mifflin, William Hiester, Simon Snyder, and Francis R. Shunk—that when they accept his resignation as a Senator in Congress, they must elect his only son and heir. Such is the history of the

The Philadelphia North American declares that "there is not a single republican, a single citizen, outside of the formidable army of place-men and parasites, who would venture the assertion that the contemplated election of Don Cameron is warranted by any sentiment of the people." It adds: "He may as well understand now what will come to him sooner or later, that the day in which people will sit down in tame sub-mission, or will crawl to the foot which s to tread their necks, is over. Thinking men are tired of the abuses which they have long recognized without combat, lest in purging their party they might destroy it. It is no easy task o over-turn a power strengthened by gen-erations of political favoritism and corruption, but it is not an impossible

The Philadelphia Times says "Mr. Cameron's election may be conceded as certain, and that his father may retire with a foreign mission, without special complaint from the State or country, out expresses the opinion that the "republicans of Pennsylvania will fire their own temples, as did the Russians their ancient capital with all its sacred altars, rather than bow to the avowed person lomination that the transfer clearly declares." The Inquirer says "it is needless to say that not a single member who has agreed to the consummation of this ne facious business represents the wishes of his constituents; each and every one of them knows that no more objectionable man than either of the Camerons could be named as the successor of the elder; they all know that they are about to carry out a bargain which hands the

An appeal of the Republicans of Louisiona to the citizens of the United States. We, the undersigned representing the Republican citizens of Louisiana, in our distress appeal to the citizens of the loyal States to raise their voices to demand a speedy relief to protect us in the enjoyment of the sacred tect us in the enjoyment of the sacred right to be governed by officers elected by a majority of legal votes of the State. The intimidation, violence, outrages and unders perpetrated upon Republicans in the different parts of the State by the White Legue Democracy are now matters of notoriety throughout the civilized world. Their policy has been to mislead the people in other States by remislead the people in other States by re-porting daily what is known to be false here, that they have control of the whole of the territory except an acre of ground in New Orleans, and that their authority is alone recognized throughout the State, and they ask to be let alone in order that the people may enjoy local self-government. Instead of Gov. Packard's authority being acknowledged only a the St. Louis Hotel, it is recognized in the greater part of the State outside of New Orleans. In at least twenty-eight parishes or counties of the State Republican officers were elected and are in the exercise of the functions of their office. and they everywhere recognize Governor Packard as Governor of the State Thirteen out of seventeen district judge outside of New Orleans were elected by the Republicans, and they have officially rocognized Governor Packard. The address concludes as follows:

We appeal, therefore, to our fellow-cit zens of the loyal States not to heed the standers published against us and to ance which should have come to us upon the wings of lightning. Justice de-layed is oftentimes justice denied. In conclusion, we respectfully but earnestly ask, we have a right to demand, that the hand of justice be speedily extende to the lawful government in Louisian to the end that the Republicans of the State may not be forced to follow the example of the Nicholls party and tempt to settle party questions by the use of the ritle and cannon,

The Russian Peasantry and Mr. Mackenzie Wallace's new work the inhabitants of Russia is full of in structive and intensely interesting mat ter. Mr. Wallace made a special study of the peasantry. In speaking of an incident of great endurance on the part of a peasant, he says:

After living some time in Russia was no longer surprised by such incidents, for I soon discovered that the Russian peasant has a marvellous powtreme cold. When a coachman takes his mistress to the theatre or to a party he never thinks of going home and re-turning at an appointed time. Hour after hour he sits placidly on the box, and, though the cold be of an intensity such as is never experienced in our tem-perate climate, he can sleep as tranquily as the lazzarone at mid-day in Naples. In that respect the Russian sant seems to be first cousin to the peasant seems to be nest count.

polar bear, but, unlike the animals of the Arctic regions, he is not at all in commoded by excessive heat. On the contrary, he likes it when he can get it, and never omits an opportunity of laying in a reserve supply of caloric. He even delights in rapid transitions from one extreme to the other, as is amply proved by a curious custom, which deserves t be recorded. The reader must know that in the life of the Russian peasantry the week-ly vapor-bath plays a most important part. It has even a certain religious signification, for no good orthodox peas-ant would dare to enter a church after being soiled by certain kinds of pollution without cleansing himself physically and morally by means of the bath. In the weekly arrangements it forms the occupation for Saturday afternoon, and care is taken to avoid thereafter all pollution until after the norning service on Sunday. Many villages possess a public communal bath of the most primitive construction, but in some parts of the country-I am not sure how far the practice extendspeasants take their vapor-bath in the household oven in which the bread is baked! In all cases the operation is pushed to the extreme limit of human endurance—far beyond the utmost limit that can be endured by those who have not been accustomed to it from childhood. For my own part, I only made the experiment once; and when I informed my attendant that my life was in danger from congestion of the brain, he laughed outright, and told me that the operation had only begun. Most astounding of all—and this brings me to the fact which led me into this digression—the peasants often rush out of the bath and roll themselves in snow! This aptly illustrates a common Russian proverb, which says that "what is health to the Russian is death to the Ger-

Song of the Heart. PHEBE CARY. They may tell forever of words of bloom, Beyond the skies and beyond the tomt— Of the sweet repose and the rapture there, That are not found in the world of care;

ut not to me can the present seem like a foolish tale or an idle dream. Oh, I know that the bowers of Heavenare fair, And I know that the waters of Life are there; But I do not long for their happy flow, While there burst such fountains of bliss be-

And I would not leave, for the rest above, The faithful bosom of trusting love!

There are angels here; they are seen the while In each love-lit brow and each gentle smile; There are seraph voices that meet the ear, In the kindly tone and the word of cheer And light, such light as they have above, Beams on us here from the eyes of love! Yet, when it cometh my time to die, I would turn from this bright world willingly; Though, even then, would the thoughts of this Tinge every dream of that land of bliss; And I fain would lean on the loved for aid, Nor walk alone through the vale and shade.

And if 'tis mine, till Life's changes end,
To guard the heart of one faithful friend
Whatever the trials of earth may be,
On the peaceful shore or the resiless sea—
In a palace home or the w Iderness
There is heaven for me in a world like this.

Succession to the Crown of Eng-

The official denial of the rumor that the ex-Queen of Hanover and her children have joined the Church of Rome was hardly needed, perhaps. But had the rumor been true, the Crown Prince Ernest and the Princesses his sisters would, of course, have forfeited their rights of eventual succession to the crown of England under the act of settlement: but as his royal highness is. land. tlement: but as his royal highness is but thirty-fifth in the line of succession, this consideration would hardly have been a practical one. As the royal family of Great Britain stands at the present moment the first eleven Princes and Princesses in the succession to the throne are British subjects. In the happily more than remote contingency of the failure of these heirs—namely, of the Prince of Wales and his children, of the Duke of Edinburgh and his chilof the Duke of Edinburgh and his children, of the Duke of Connaught, and of Prince Leopold, the next heir would be the Princess Imperial of Germany; Prince William of Prussia, her Highness's son, recently invested with the order of the garter, being thus thirteenth in the succession. After the Prince would come his six brothers and sisters. Failing these, the Princess Louis of Failing these, the Princess Louis of Hesse inhereits the claim, being twen-tieth in the line of the succession. Her royal highness is the mother of six children. Consequently her next sister, the Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, is twenty-seventh in the order of succession. Next come the Princess Christian's four children; next the Christian's four children; next the Princess Louise, Marchioness of Lorne; and last of her present majesty's issue, the Princess Beatrice, (thirty-third). Following these comes King George of Hanover, (thirty-fourth.) the Crown Prince Ernest, and the Princesses Frederica and Mary. The Duke of Cambridge is thirty-eighth in the order of succession.

France and Germany,

The alarm of Germany over the pessibility of French designs on Alsace and Lorraine, provinces wrested from France by the Franco-Prussian war, is manifest in the order for all Frenchmen who in the order for all Frenchmen who fought in the French army to leave that section. A deputy from Metz, in the Reichstag, made the assertion yesterday that since the German occupation everything had depreciated in the two everything had depreciated in the two provinces, and the suggestion was made that autonomy would be agreeable to the people. France has shown a good deal of forbearance in her treatment of various German protests against the work of fortifying her new frontier line at Arras, Besancon and Verdun, while Germany is vigorously fortifying Strasbourg, Metz, Mayence and other frontier points. The work on the French tier points. The work on the French fortifications is said to have been sus-pended to oblige Germany and furnish no pretext for a German declaration of war, but Bismarck, who is remarkably sensitive on the Alsace-Lorraine subject, may possibly keep up his nagging until it amounts to a degree of insolence which France will not stand, and the which France will not stand, and the old fight may be renewed. France has no notion, at present, of fighting anybody. She is, in fact, making great preparations for the Industrial Exhibition of 1878, and it is to be hoped that Bismarck will rein in his dogs of war for a few years at least.

the Virginia line, by way of Leaksville; may commence operations by electing officers, &c., when the sum of $10,000 shall have been subscribed. The company has the ordinary rights of similar corporations.) Ratified the 5th day of March, 1877.

An Act to incorporate the Trustees of the Wentworth Male Academy,) in the county of Rockingham. (Usual act of incorporation. Ratified the 5th day of March, 1877.

An Act to repeal so much of an Act entitled An Act providing for additional terms of the Superior Courts of Northampton and Halifax counties, as applies to the county of Halifax. (Repeals the provision for an additional term of the provision for an additional term of mankind was not more unanimous in rethe provision for an additional term of mankind was not more unanimous in rethe Superior Courts for the county of Halifax) Ratified the 5th day of March, 1877. that it is to-day in regard to the charac-advisers he has called about him not only know this, but are in their own minds convinced that he has no just and adequate title to the Chief Magistracy, is clearly shown by the attitude which the new President has assumed in regard to the great issues upon which the election turned. One of the new Cabinet, indeed, Secretary Key, is upen record as having plainly declared his belief that the Democratic candidate was fairly and truly elected. candidate was fairly and truly elected in November, 1876; and it would be offering a gratuitous insult to the intel-ligence of a man like Mr. Evarts to suppose that he has the slightest doubt as to the true nature of the victory won by himself and his associates before the Electorial Commission over the facts of the case and the will of the American people. President Hayes plainly understands that upon the issues on which he was nominated try will no longer support any Executive at Washington in that lawless interference with the rights of local self-government at the South by which alone the fall of the Republican dynasty has been checked ever since the true nature of the Grant administration first devel-oped itself and made itself generally un-derstood. He has therefore made haste to propitiate the ruling sentiment of the country by proclaiming his intention of abstaining from violent and revolutionary practices which, were he never so much disposed to them he could not safely attempt to carry out. In order to keep him faithful to these promises nothing more is needed than to maintain firmly and in unbroken order before him the Conservative front of power by which he has been coerced into making these promises. The men who fought for his election and were beaten at the polls have no such oppor-tunity as his office gives to him of kick-ing down the ladder on which they rose, and on which they stand aloft but tot-tering to-day. Republican Senators and Representatives cannot expect to retain their seats in Congress as President Hayes obtained the keys of the White House, by the favor of the Returning Boards in Louisiana or South Carolina or of an Electoral Commission at Washington. They have no hold on anything but the Radical sentiment of their respective States and districts, and if they cannot bend the President to

What have the representatives of con-servatism and of the constitution at the North or at the South to do with this duel between the defeated leaders of a defeated party and a President who would gladly get his doubtful title confirmed by a general popular condonation of the means through which it was acquired, and who would rather see his defeated supporters go down without him than engulf him, with his adminis-tration, in their own ruin? Certainly the reputation of the United States has nothing to gain from such a condona-tion of glaring and notorious fraud. Certainly the interests of peace and or-der have nothing to gain from a disintegration of the great party to which alone the present triumph of peace and order is due, and which holds to-day in its hands, if it will but be true to itself, the power to maintain peace and order everywhere, at the North and at the South, against all intrigues and all op-

We can well understand how natural it is that Southern men should be more deeply concerned about the maintenance of local self-government in the Southern States than about any other and superficially wider issues. should not quarrel with them for this, oven if we held, as we do not hold, that local self-government at the South is a matter more interesting to them than it is to us. We regard it as absolutely vital to the preservation of our national institutions, and we are with them thoroughly and earnestly on this point, as we have been with them on this point as we have been with them on this point for years past while they were powerless to contend for it, and their battle had to be fought throughout the West and the North against overwhelming odds of patronage and prejudice and popular passion. But the victory has been won. The fact that President Hayes has been inaugurated through the success of a scandalous intrigue must not be allowed to blind the eye of the not be allowed to blind the eye of the friends of Conservatism and Democracy to the much greater fact that Mr. Til-den was lawfully elected by the people at the polls. That we have been de-frauded of a Democratic President is a thing which may naturally move Demecrats to indignation; but the President of the United States is not the government of the United States; and there is nothing whatever to excuse the Democrats, who went into this contest with wide national objects in view, for forgetting that the people of the whole country have indorsed the position of the Democratic party by a decisive majority, and that the Democratic memjority, and that the Democratic members in the two Houses of Congress have to-day the power in their hands to enforce respect for the constitution and the laws throughout all parts of the Union upon all the servants, high and low, of the American people. This is a sacred trust, and it cannot be trifled with, on any pretext whatever, without imperilling all that we have already won for American Law, and all that we hope to win for American Liberty. hope to win for American Liberty, Wilson Advance: A terrible homicide occurred near Battleboro on Saturday night. It seems that two negroes, Ned Taylor and Bill Bryan, got into an alter-cation, when the latter stabbed the fermer, from the effects of which he died the following morning. Bryan has been arrested and lodged in Tarboro jail. Both were drunk, and it is the impression that liquor was the only cause of the dispute.

Chambers, of the Charlotte Observer, feels and realizes that revenge is sweet. During Mecklenburg court Judge Cloud had him locked up in the Court House and made him listen to a charge which His Honor was delivering to the jury, and now Chambers rejoices with a joy exceeding and full of glory, in giving publicity to the fact that Old-Man-Fond of-His-Tobacco has been indicted in Surry court for assault and battery.

The Warrenton Gazette says: The people near Prospect are considerably excited over a supposed ghost. The ghost shows itself at the residence of Mrs. Anthony Dowtin, at present unoccupied. In the morning, when the sun shines, may be distinctly seen reflected on a window pane the bust of a man. In the evening, the picture changes to that of a handsome weman. Several reliable gentlemen tell us they have seen the faces. On Sunday last over one hundred people witnessed the phenomenon. It has caused great alarm and excitement among the colored people.

Wilmington Star, of Friday: Yesterterday afternoon, a few minutes before 7 o'clock, a colored man, whose name we could not ascertain, met with a horrible accident on the railroad just above Boney's Bridge, by which he lost his life. It appears that the deceased jumped from a train and alighted on the track just as a connecting engine was approaching, which struck him before he could get out of the way, knocking him prostrate and running over him, by which his head was almost entirely severed from his body, the only connecting link left being a portion of the skin, while both arms were broken, one of them in two places, and, of course, causing instant death.

Newbern Nut Shell : A few days since Rev. E. M. Forbes had a number of workmen employed digging a well on his premises, when a solid mass of brick masonry was discovered under the earth. The masonry was first reached about six feet from the surface of the earth and was some ten feet in depth. Its breadth and length have not yet been ascertained, although a large space has been uncovered. This rather singular discovery has its parallel in more than one instance: A short time since Mr. N. S. Richardson was digging a deep trench on his premises and when about five or six feet beneath the surface of the ground, he came to a solid foundation of brick.

The Asheville Citizen says: We learn of a fatal affray occurring in Henderson county on Friday last, resulting in the death of two brothers named Corn. It appears that Deputy Sheriff Byers, armed with an order to dispossess from the court, and accompanied by a posse of three men, visited the residence of a son of Jesse B. Corns, living about five miles from Hendersonville. They entered the house, a log building, the Corns being absent from it at the moment. But in a few minutes old man Corn, having been apprised of the situa-tion, accompanied by his sons came up to the house, and the old man fired one shot with a shot gun into the house, without, however, doing any damage.
The officers inside then closed the doors and fired through the cracks at the party with cold north to west winds and risoutside, two of the shots fired by young ing barometer.

John Arledge, (as it appears,) one of the Sheriff's posse, taking effect on the persons of two of the young Corns and killing them both. Subsequently old man Corn, the Deputy Sheriff and John Arledge were arrested and had an examination before Squire Mark Patton, but of the result of this trial we have not been apprised.

Nomination of Fred. Douglass Favorable Reported on-An Unfortunate Cousin--Caution-ary Signals--The Next Con-gress--Assistant Secretary Co-nant--Closing out at the Extra Session--The Columbia, S. C., Postmatership. Postmastership.

Washington, March 17.—The opposition to Fred Douglass is strong, mainly because he lacks legal knowedge and personal acquaintance with the condition of property in the District.

The New York Tribune's Washington dispatch says that among the unsuccessful candidates for the United States Marshalship for the northern district of Illinois was a Mr. Stillwell, of Livingston county. Chas. Cowden Clarke Dead--Von Arnim Reported Dying --- An Odious Comparison--The Lou-don Times Pleased With the Progress of the Negotiations. LONDON, March 17.—Charles Cowden Clarke, lecturer and author, is dead.

Count Von Arnim is reported dying at Nice. The Times, in a leading article, contrasts the long preparation which pre-ceded the Andrassy notes and the Berin memorandum with the celerity of the present negotiation. It says con iation and promptitude have been the characteristics of all parties, and, having resolved to agree, their complaisance is wonderful. The protocol was only communicated to Lord Derby on Sunderful and the state of t day and on Friday we are congratulated as an accomplished work. This shows that whatever the Russian government may propose to accomplish, association with the European powers is looked upon as important, either for external political action or to allay irritation and lisappointment at home. The assurances of the Russians make us believe the latter is the object, and that the Czar, having determined to relinquish his enterprises, desires merely such con ditions as will not too much humble his people. If this be the motive, the signature of the protocol will be a decisive event, unless, indeed, new disorders in Turkey throw all again into confusion.

MORE INVESTIGATION WANTED.

The Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Said to be on the Ragged Edge.

[N. Y. Sun.] Washingron, March 15 .- The new Administration is likely to have its full share of investigation before long. There is a rumor this evening that Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Conant is dangerously mixed up in the frauds recently discovered in the payment of back registered bond interest on forged letters of attorney, and by the purchase of claims outright. At the time one or two arrests were made and the business was broken up. It looked extremely difficult for such a thing to be going on without Conant's knowledge, and Sherman is reported to have information that will make an investigation necessioner John O. Smith have been laid before Carl Schurz by James Taylor, agent for the Cherokee band in North Carolina. Carl Schurz declared himself unable to attend to them at present, and deferred their consideration until the affairs of the department are more settled. The specifications relate to the purchase of supplies and to the management and disbursement of the funds belonging to the Cherokee Indians, the general charges being corruption and incompetency. Smith has so far borne a good reputation, and labored to reform the bureau. W. M. Grosvenor is to be the chief clerk of the department, but he has given out that he is anxious to get at the head of the Indian Bureau, and a reason may exist for pressing these charges to get rid of Smith. This appointment of Grosvenor, if made, will be taken by all St. Louis people as the highest evidence of the determination of the Administration to inaugurate real Civil Service Reform, for Grosvenor has an enviable reputation among his old acquaintances for high notions in regard to all pecuniary transactions.

Impoverished by Lawsuits. When the late James B. Taylor, of New York, died a few years since, he New York, died a few years since, he was supposed to be worth several million dollars, while by his will his wife inherited the property. As executrix of her husband's great estate, she at once found herself embarrassed by a control of the state of the multitude of unsettled claims against the property, and by a contest with her daughter, who disputed the validity of the will. Among the creditors of the estate was O. B. Mattison, of Utica, who held notes amounting to $75,000, and by a suit begun by him and other creditors in the Supreme Court, Oneida county, Mrs. Taylor was pronounced mentally incapable of managing the estate, and a receiver was appointed. A referee was appointed to take proof and report concerning the validity of the claims against the property. It was soon found that the estate, reduced by mismanagement and legal claims, would amount to not more than $200,000, and that this sum would be swallowed up in settling the charges of the receiver, the fees of the daughter's lawyer, her guardian and guardian's lawyer, and the cost of her suit in the courts. Creditors swarmed from every side to the plunder of the estate, and it was declared insolvent. Mrs. Taylor was left penni less. She was compelled in October last to go forth from her Madison ave-nue mansion and seek the charity of her friends in the country. To complete her burden of misfortunes, her costly and magnificent wardrobe, which filled nine large trunks, was attached at the moment when she was leaving home, for a small debt. The wardrobe, which was valued at $4,000, was exposed for sale on Wednesday last, and brought only $300, not enough to pay the attach-
